Cleaning Away the Rubbish and Making Ready for Thursday.

The work at the mounent-grounds is progressing smoothly.

When Captain Cole and his force quit work yesterday afternoon at 6 o'clock about one third of the staging or scaffolding used in raising and placing the statue in position had been taken down. The nearer to the ground this work gets the more easily it can be accomplished, so it is fart to presume, and Captain Cole so states, that by to-night or early to-morrow morning all traces of timber and rubbish of all kinds will be removed.

The veil is now secured against the wind's pranks by several ropes passed around the horse's body. The ears and tip of the animal's tail protrude through the covering, in order they may not hinder its descent. When General Johnston pulls the string that holds the veil it will gracefully drop to the rear, and will be pulled clear of the monument by parties stationed there for that purpose.

TWO COUSINS DROWNED IN THE POND AT PROVIDENCE FORGE.

Mr. Chapman's Boat Capsizes, and Mr. Dean, Going to His Rescue, Meets a Similar Fate.

Providence Forge is on the Peninsula di-vision of the Chesapeake and Ohio railway about nineteen miles east of Richmond. The Whit-Monday excursion to this place yesterday was given by the Excelsior So-cial Club, and the party carried down numbered semething over 800.

HOW IT HAPPENED.

Persons who are familiar with the arrangements at Providence Forge will recall the fact that near the dam, on the east side of the pond and just a short way up from the mill, there is a boat-house.

It was from this point that Mr. Chapman between 2 and 2 o'clock started out for a boat-ride. He had only gotten about fifty yards from the shore, rowing almost directly across the pond, when his boat capsized and he was carried under.

There were only two or three men and a few youths and boys near by at the time who witnessed the occurrence. One of these was Mr. Dean, a first cousin to Chapman, and he jumped in another boat and started out to the rescue of his relative, but had not gotten more than half the distance when his boat also capsized and he went under.

Upon the arrival of the train the bodies were taken to the undertaking establishment of Messrs. Billups & Son to be prepared for interment.

There will be a double funeral from the Leigh-Street Baptist church at 4:30 o'clock this afternoon and the bodies will be interred in Oakwood cemetery. PERSONAL,

Mr. Dean, the older of the two men drowned, was the son of the late Otis Dean, who was for many years employed at the City Gas-Works, and was in the thirty-third year of his age. He resided at No. 803 north Twenty-fifth street with his mother, who has been an invalid for many years. He was a machinist by trade.

Mr. Chapman, who was a carmenter was Mr. Chapman, who was a carpenter, was a son of Mr. William C, Chapman, and lived with his parents at No. 722 north Twenty-sixth street. He was in his twenty-third year, and was a member of Hope Council, Junior Order United American Mechanics.

Attention is called to the sale of Reserved Seats on the Lee Circle for parade and fireworks both east and west of Lombardy street, at No. 22 north Ninth street, Mayo's auction-house. The plan adopted by the Covington Im-

The plan adopted by the Covington Improvement company is one that cannot fail of success. The company has purchased about one thousand acres of the beautifully located lands surrounding the town, and is now dividing the same into business lots, dwelling lots, and manufacturing sites. It is now building an elegant hotel, and is securing plans for a rolling mill and steam forge for making car-axles, links, and pins, &c. This plant will be completed with the least possible delay and will employ four hundred men. Other plants will follow. The company intends to erect them and not to rely on foreign capital. For the present lets will be sold privately only. Some may be sold by public auction later when the company's plants are approaching completion. Some of the capital stock of the company will be sold at par for a limited time, and the proceeds will be devoted to permanent improvements. There are no preferences among stockholders, All are on the "ground floor." Address R. I. Parrish, President, or J. J. Hobbs, Treasurer, Covington, Va. Mr. Samuel P. Weisiger, of Augusta, Ga.,
